Eau! You pretty things

With sickly-sweet celebrity smellies saturating the market, now's the time to invest in something altogether more refined. We present the finest, most sublime of fragrances:

- Infused with Earl Grey, this scent summons up the spirit of the roaring

20s, with an ambrosial modern twist. Oud Save The Queen, Atkinsons, £140 for 100ml (www.selfridges.com)

- A heady mix of exotic ingredients, from tonka bean to absinthe to Sicilian orange. Liquid Crystal, Agonist, £125 for 50ml (www.liberty.co.uk)

- Look to Mary Greenwell's Cherry for a fresh and spritely cassis aroma. Cherry, Mary Greenwell, £95 for 100ml (www.harrods.com)
- A subtle fragrance, combining 'paper flower' notes with a light, woody incense base. Calycanthus Brumae eau de parfum, Acqua

di Stresa, £48 for 50ml (www.averyfineperfumery.co.uk)

- A memorable scent inspired by the stark Irish landscape. Bitter End, Roads, £98 for 50ml (www.averyfineperfumery.co.uk)
- Couturier to Princess Diana, Jacques Azagury's White Parfum is no less fit for royalty than his gowns. White Parfum, Azagury, £240 for 50ml (www.fenwick.co.uk)

- Famed perfumer Francis Kurkdjian's Aqua Vitae boasts a refinement rare even in the luxury sphere. Aqua Vitae, Maison Francis Kurkdjian, £175 for 200ml (www.selfridges.com)
